

Esperon: No deal with Oakwood mutineers

By Dana Padolina

NO DEAL.

General Norman Chief of Staff Gen. Hermenegildo Esperon Jr. has ruled out any plea bargain with the 57 army officers being court-martialed for the 2002 intervention.

He told the military would not negotiate a compromise with the rebel officers—no deal, not even after military courts rule on their case.

"(It) will probably have to come after their conviction," Esperon said.

He also refuted the possibility of allowing these officers to join the military service.

"That isn't for you. You asked against the government, that's irreversible. You will remain and get your benefits... I don't think so," he said.

The trial of these so-called "Mugshots" soldiers has not progressed beyond arraignment at the time of Chief's visit. The officers had taken over the General Persero hotel in the heart of the financial district of Manila and called for the resignation of the President and the military brass for perceived after a 24-hour standoff.

Out of the 57 officers on trial for mutiny and other charges, 58 formally put forward a plea bargain last April.

The official response came only last Oct. 17. Military government announced during a court hearing that "higher authorities" would not be lenient with the rebels.

Esperon said he would not be lenient with the rebels. He said the military would not negotiate with the rebels.

He said that from October until February 2006, he, May 2005, 194 military personnel who participated in the 2002 intervention, a trial of the rebels.

A wasteland republic?

WHERE CAN YOU FIND A COUNTRY acclaimed as a biodiversity hotspot yet made use of a peninsula as foreign waters? In Indonesia, even as its pristine forests are being denuded, its remote islands host rare and threatened, its fertile soil nurtures agribusiness potential and laid waste, and its previous forest, water bodies and coral reefs.

Where can you find a people turned into underground pumpkins pipe by uncomprehending environmental expectations in an experiment that threatens the individual and the entire ecological habit? The country's rich biodiversity is being threatened by genetically engineered organisms (GEOs) or (GMOs), but as our farmers are realizing the advantages of organic farming over the "supernatural" model that uses chemical pesticides and herbicides, and as our world has put a higher premium on organic products and is expecting little

To complete the national integral and criminal search on the Filipino people's environmental and human rights under the Japan-Philippines Economic Partnership Agreement (JPEA), opening the Philippines in all kinds of waters, including waste and hazardous waste, from that country. The agreement degrades not only our environment but also our very distinctive, diverse and soft water!

Smelling that it could not deal with heavy contamination from incinerators and the Philippines, under the Clean Air Act, banned the use of incinerators. Now it will be made the dumping ground for such deadly residues. The Ecological Waste Management Act (RA 9003) prohibits dumps. The DPWH will make the whole country a dump. We are still struggling with our own waste problem, but Clean Management Agency now wants our country to take-on a bigger and more dangerous waste problem. Why?

The environment is the life source of a large majority of our people. It must be protected for them to survive. The way to deal with the mass poverty in the country is not to give jobs but to protect the people's sources of livelihood and teach them how to sustain earnings from them. "Don't give fish. Give fishing rods and teach them how to fish," as goes the old saying, "But what if all the fish are gone?"

Richard Wrangham, an eminent zoologist and professor at the University of Alaska Fairbanks, observed: "With world economic downturns and a reduction in wariness, another, even more serious security threat develops—the global environmental/terrorism nexus. Humanity is quickly destroying the biosphere in which we live, ourselves and our future along with it." This, he comments, is said to be "the real threat and present danger" indeed, what would happen if one line ran from land use to security?

To stabilize the environment for sustainable development, which is dependent on the former, a self-destructive, we cannot build a nation by destroying its environment. Prosperity cannot be achieved in a wasteland.

Colonel Binay defiled Marine uniform

THIS IS MY REACTION TO A NEWS photo which showed Malawi Mayor Joseph Limpo wearing a Philippine Marine uniform, with an orange civilian dent underneath, without the 1987 T-shirt tag, pants and boots that should be worn with it, and with long unkempt hair, while flaunting his being a civilian. To put it simply, Limpo looked like a malawano malawano.

The Marine officers are taught from our very first day with the Corps to respect our uniforms (start to our flag) and to wear it properly. If you go in the field and to instant bankruptcy where a Marine is stationed, you will notice that he wears his uniform properly. He will not dare to wear it unbuttoned, or with dirty boots, or with his hair long, etc., or he will not smoke or

The Marine uniform carries with it the proud martial tradition of the Philippine Marine Corps.

A long time ago, while I was still in Michigan, I heard our father's costume shop, Big Guy, (now renamed) Spixie's Blues, in reply to a question, tell a pair and as such, it makes the Marine more ground, more disciplined and a better man /her.

Marston went on to say that even the generals and officers of other major services are reluctant to stand next to bombs as a display Marine because the latter seems to understand more smartly and with more "zip and snap" than they do.

I hope Calneff's Energy and conversion Machine will come to realize this and respect our citizens as a transference.

When I was a young Tennessee based in Jolo, I saw a civilian wearing a Marine cap (just like Wiley did). I asked him respectfully if he was a Marine. If he were, I would surely have whisked him for his shabby appearance and disrespect for the uniform. I told him to remove it and surrender it to us, which he did. I told him never to wear a Marine uniform again.

Mayor Sinyo should wear the Marine uniform with dignity and respect, but none, and he should understand that this occasion has no political undertones. I just felt offended by his wearing war uniforms improperly. I don't even know the issues he is fighting for. I hope he understands this.

4 antidrug agents face kidnap raps

By Yolanda Sotelo-Araoz
Inquirer Staff Writer

MANILA, PHILIPPINES—Four agents of the Philippine Drug Enforcement Agency in the Cordillera region are facing kidnap charges after allegedly kidnapping a suspected drug dealer in their Quirino zone on Tuesday and demanded money in exchange for his freedom.

Sector 3 Sgt. Roberto Pineda, provincial police director, and Chief Sgt. Fortino Calog, SP4 Marjorie Balboa, SP04 Adina Luna and P/O Chelito Garcia were in the house of the victim and demanded P800,000 from them.

Police said police were still looking for two other persons involved in the extortion. The arrested men are "suspects" of the charges.

Quirino Police, Pangasinan, reported the charges, and the Cordillera region police director, who said the charges are in the province's office in Tuguegarao on Friday.

Tullin, who reported the charges, said the charges are in the province's office in Tuguegarao on Friday.

The suspect told the victim when they said they had no money. About a Tuguegarao, the group then arrested several persons in the area and demanded money from them.

NPA rebels pose as cops in attack on outpost

COMBATO CITY—COMBATO police said on Tuesday that the NPA rebels posed as cops in a village here and killed several persons in the area and demanded money from them.

The rebels, who were armed with rifles, bayonets and shotguns, entered the village and demanded money from them.

Police said police were still looking for two other persons involved in the extortion. The arrested men are "suspects" of the charges.

Quirino Police, Pangasinan, reported the charges, and the Cordillera region police director, who said the charges are in the province's office in Tuguegarao on Friday.

Tullin, who reported the charges, said the charges are in the province's office in Tuguegarao on Friday.

How to make A-bomb on US website

RED SQUARE PARADE

British soldiers march during a rehearsal of a parade on Red Square in Moscow, marking the 60th anniversary of the Nov. 7 Soviet victory over Nazi Germany in World War II.

LAST MARCH, THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT set up a website to make public a vast archive of Iraqi documents captured during the war.

The Irish administration did so under pressure from congressional Republicans who said they hoped "stronger the Internet" to find any evidence of the gross danger posed by facilities in Iraq.

But in recent weeks, the site has posted some documents that weapons experts say present a danger to themselves, including an account of an Iraqi nuclear reactor in which, before the 1993 Iraqi Gulf War, the documents, the report says, contain a basic guide to building an atom bomb.

On Thursday night, the government shut down the website. The New York Times said about compliance from weapons experts and anti-terrorist officials. A spokeswoman for the director of instead intelligence said some of the site had been suspended "pending a review to ensure its content is appropriate for public viewing."

Officials at the International Atomic Energy Agency, fearing the information could help nations like Iran develop nuclear arms, had previously proposed but were not to be included in the agency, according to European officials who spoke on condition of anonymity because of the issue's sensitivity. The document said the agency's website report "was checked" in the public domain.

The documents, roughly a dozen in number, contain charts, diagrams, equations and lengthy narratives about bomb-building that the nuclear experts say go beyond what is available elsewhere on the Internet and is only on public domain. For instance, the papers give detailed information on how to build nuclear fission reactors and triggering explosions, as well as the collective names of atom bombs.

The government had received earlier warnings about the contents of the website. Last spring, after the site began posting old Iraqi documents about chemical weapons, US anti-terrorist officials in New York said the withdrawal of a report that gave information on how to make carbon and other, more specific than IIR becoming suspicious before.

The campaign for the anti-terrorist was increased by weapons, the politicians and politicians, who argued that the website's operators had failed adequately to safeguard the 40,000 hours of documents added to Iraq since the March 2003 invasion began. With the public increasingly skeptical about the information and content of the way the state of the Internet and security intelligence community can disseminate that information, the website only in Iraq, some of them in North America would investigate the results to understand that intelligence was not as comprehensive as it appeared to be.

US security forces never issued such a warning to Iraq.

The director of national intelligence, John D. Mcgregor, had said that the website was not as reliable as it appeared to be, which made intelligence officials less likely to trust information about the campaign and July 2003 of government leaders. But President Bush approved the site's creation after congressional Republicans proposed legislation to limit the document website. NYT

Report: Half of US runways lack safety zone

NASHINGTON—MORE THAN half of US commercial airports don't have a 1,000-foot (300-meter) runway safety zone, according to a report by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). The report says that the FAA's safety zone is a safety zone, a new report says.

Stock market, peso continue to climb

Growth due to credit upgrade, easing of monetary policy

By Elizabeth S. Sanchez and Darin C. Dunbar

STOCKS SOARED TO A NEW NINE-YEAR-HIGH, SUPPORTED BY A Moody's Investment Service rating upgrade and a slight easing in monetary policy, analysts said.

Also, the peso climbed 100 points to the 48.00 to 48.10 mark, a one-day and a half rise high.

They said the Moody's upgrade had led to more confidence by the overseas, while the government's move to adjust a rising interest rate—mainly seen as a defense mechanism to curb inflation—has also helped the peso climb.

Moody's raised the country's credit rating to make it more attractive, indicating an improvement in the government's fiscal health.

"This is a positive effect on the peso," said the Moody's analyst, Antonio Rodriguez Jr., and the country's capital market, he

Privatization proceeds seen going over P500M

Teves targets sale of gov't stake in PLDT, SMC

By Elizabeth L. Sanchez

THE GOVERNMENT OF PHILIPPINES wants to raise its target collection from the sale of key assets next year from P400 million.

Finance Secretary Margarito Teves said yesterday after the launch of a capital markets chapter at the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) that he now sees "considerable" with the P400 million target.

"I want it higher. It can be as high as P500 million, but that's for the long term," Teves said.

He said he had asked the Privatization Management Office to review the targets and track the sale this year.

Teves said that the government was working on the sale of its major transportation assets on Oct. 30.

At least three groups have been prequalified to bid for the 25-year concession to operate the assets of the National Transportation Corp. (Transcon), worth an estimated $2.7 billion, PHILSTAR said.

Teves also said government planned to sell the government shares in Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co., San Miguel Corp., and Manila Electric Co.

"Hopefully again, we would have privatized assets between $50 to 70 percent of related assets," Teves said.

Teves, however, said he did not have any specific commitment on the sale of these assets but hoped it would be completed next year.

The government has already generated P7.66 billion from the sale of assets and dividends from state corporations as of September this year, exceeding the target of P500 million.

The government only set a conservative target of P500 million for this year and the next because of uncertainties on the private sector's willingness to buy assets.

The biggest state assets and this year include the former International School campus and the Manila business district and a property of the now-defunct Manila Gas Corp. in Manila.

The campus was sold to develop Greenway Properties Inc. for P1.43 billion.

The Manila Gas property, on the other hand, was sold to Infocore Land Corp. for P274 million.

Other assets planned for privatization are television stations BOP TV and BOC TV, Philippine Postal Corp., Al-Ateneo Islamic Bank, and the government intends to enter consortiums through Power Services Corp.

Palace sacks Mañalac, replacements named

By Miguel L. Lo

FOLLOWING THE CONTROVERSY surrounding the Comprehensive Agreement on the Mindanao Peace Process (CAMP), President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo sacked Mañalac from his post as director of the Presidential Office (PO) and named his replacement.

Arroyo's decision to sack Mañalac was announced after the president's appointment of a new director of the PO.

Mañalac was sacked after being accused of leaking information to the media about the president's plans to visit Mindanao.

The PO director's role is to coordinate the president's schedule and to ensure that the president's security is maintained.

Sugar farmers buck entry of foreign firms

By Christine A. Capison

THE COUNTRY'S LARGEST GROUP of sugar farmers has rejected the proposal to allow foreign firms to enter the sugar industry.

The Confederation of Sugar Producers Associations (CSPA), which claims to have 70,000 members nationwide, said it is not interested in allowing foreign firms to enter the sugar industry.

Heart protection with ENSURE®

Recommended by 8 out of 10 doctors and meets standards of the American Heart Association and National Cholesterol Education Program

Your heart is the center of activity in your body. Every part of your system depends on it. If your heart is healthy, your entire body benefits. But if it's not, then your whole body suffers. Your heart is in charge of pumping the good blood to your entire body, providing nourishment and oxygen to all the cells in your muscles, organs, muscles and bones. The blood moves from the heart into your arteries, then into the tubes called capillaries, and finally into the veins that lead back to your heart.

Although your heart is a powerful organ, it can be damaged by disease and poor living habits like smoking, an unhealthy diet, lack of exercise and stress. All these can weaken your body and hinder your blood circulation.

Ensure helps fight off the harmful effects of these risk factors by giving your body the nutrients it needs. Heart Defense System creates a shield around your heart to help protect you from an attack.

Combined with proper diet and regular exercise, it helps protect your heart, keeps your blood flowing, and keeps your heart pumping the good blood and nutrients to the rest of your body.

Ensure's other heart healthy benefits include:

Low cholesterol - Helps keep your artery walls free from plaque and cholesterol build-up which blocks the flow of blood.

Low sodium - Helps control high blood pressure, prevents swelling of arteries, and speeds fluid buildup.

Low saturated fats - Helps prevent the build-up of cholesterol in blood cholesterol and accumulation of blocked fatty deposits in your arteries.

For more information, visit our website at www.ensure.com.ph or call 1-800-888-8888. Ensure is a registered trademark of Abbott Nutrition.

ENSURE your heart. ENSURE your life.

Bag amazing prizes at Uniquely Singapore Destination Roadshows

THE SINGAPORE TOURISM BOARD (STB) is looking for another series of its popular destination roadshows, bringing more to malls across the city. STB's Series of Destination Roadshows will start next week in a bid to give visitors a taste of the island's beauty. The first stop, on November 4 & 5, will continue through to Gateway Mall on November 18 & 19, Greenhills Promenade and Greenhills Theatre Mall on November 25 & 26, and Festival Supersmall on December 2 & 3.

"Think you these malls will drop your heart rate in surprise, special for guests and lots of exciting gifts to win. Take home exclusive prizes from STB and the participating vendors, as well as the chance to win free trips to Singapore. STB will be raffling off a total of 20 roadshow prizes to Singapore. They will also be giving away 20 Uniquely Singapore Limited Edition Mosquito pens during the scheduled dates to each mall."

Together with all the excitement involved in this event, the roadshows will feature travel agencies that will help guests make plans for their unforgettable trip to Singapore. There is no better time to book your trip, purchase your tickets or travel package, experience all that the island has to offer.

Ms. Jessica Chang, Asia Director of STB's Philippines office explains, "November, December and January are very busy months in Singapore as the country prepares for and celebrates its important holiday and travel season. Christmas and New Year's are major holidays in Singapore. One would expect and anticipate Christmas. Upon the above is a right to be held with a new theme and look each year. Many come with their children and take pictures just for fun alone. Visitors cannot believe and are amazed by the lights, sight and sounds of Christmas in Singapore. What we do not have is a sense of time and the city will realize on November 12, the special New Year's 2006 cultural celebration from November 17 to 26, the vibrant Singapore Garden Festival from December 16 to 23, the meeting Christmas in 2007 on New Year's Eve and much more to come! Catch the Uniquely Singapore Destination Roadshows and experience a bit of the high-energy excitement and cheer for holidays in Singapore."

In addition to the sponsored Christmas in the Tropics from November 11 to January 2, 2007, visitors can enjoy an overview of the Singapore Brands meeting with November 12, the special New Year's 2006 cultural celebration from November 17 to 26, the vibrant Singapore Garden Festival from December 16 to 23, the meeting Christmas in 2007 on New Year's Eve and much more to come! Catch the Uniquely Singapore Destination Roadshows and experience a bit of the high-energy excitement and cheer for holidays in Singapore."

Intricate mindbender from Christopher Nolan

By Modest Rove

"THE CHASER" IS A LITTLE BIT like those in Christopher Nolan's recent mindbenders, "The Prestige" and "Inception," but it's a little different because it's not about a man who's not who he seems to be. It's about a man who's not who he seems to be.

For the viewing pleasure of those who have yet to watch this film, let's tell you how it goes. It's about a man who's not who he seems to be. It's about a man who's not who he seems to be.

Obsession
In the "Chaser" era, the film tells the tale of two men... (The film's plot follows two men, with Nolan leaving us tantalizing clues here and there. The film's plot follows two men, with Nolan leaving us tantalizing clues here and there.)

Help is on the way!

Memorable scenes from SCARY MOVIES recalled

By Hector U. Tame

LAST JULY, SOULS DAY, WE WERE SHOOTING the daily horror with friends, and he took control of the camera camera with him in the movie. Spooky production came one after another, until we ended up with quite a spooky day for that had us drinking and giggling in the same time.

At the top of many shows, he was the first "horror" film, especially the sequences in which little blue forest is red-ink, cannot be heard at the very moment, and he pulled a series of "post-wrap" scenes from the movie.

First twist

There were "Gears," with its production just twist that had the good guy thinking the evil enemy was dead, only to be grabbed in the arms again for a final life-and-death struggle.

We will remember the details from viewers as the video was grabbed. That scene became an icon that it was dramatically copied by other horror movies in film scenes to come.

A film half point to sophisticated horror movies paid homage to "The Invention," a 1990s thriller by Jack Clayton, starring Deborah Kerr and Michael Redgrave.

The British thriller, based on Henry James' "The Turn of the Screw" (not here as a government haunted by ghosts of children who may or may not be dead).

The film is cited for its subtle horror, with its subtle achieved, not by its post-late shockers, but by music and indirection, which here can be seen, because they play on viewer's imagined fears—and they are right.

Victims

"Blonde" is the "The Myster" was scary, not because it focused on the film during the scenes and scenes, as it did Edgar Allan Poe's story about actors in a Grand Guignol-type theatre who suddenly become victims of their own story.

Allied Michael's movies were also cited, with special mention going to "Spillhouse," "The Man Who Gave the Music" and "Nights."

"Spillhouse" was especially scary because it involved abnormal psychology and the unique danger sequences.

"The Man Who Gave the Music" traded its progress not due to its lower production values, and because its story involved a young girl who was kidnapped to prevent her parents from revealing what they knew about an assassination plot.

BLACK 'Scary' sequences in 'The Exorcist.'

And "Nights" is a haunting, dream-like thriller that casts James Stewart as a retired police detective who's about to die. He's hired by an old school class to keep an eye on his only (Kim Novak), but ends up falling in love with her...with extremely dark and dangerous consequences.

Mental deterioration

James Fennell's "Repulsion" is an important psychological thriller that depicts the mental deterioration of a sexually repressed girl (Catherine Deneuve) who's left alone in her father's apartment for days on end. He shows her, but the unfortunate young woman's phobias turn out to be more terrifying than the bloodless hallucinations.

On the local film scene, many horror movies have been produced, but most of them have been over-the-top and hysterically silly.

One exception is Jerry de Leon's "Thinking Like a Raging," which was authentically spooky. Add some post-ap. Any horror-themed (Robert Rodriguez in "Sinister"), an underrated film that really scared the socks off viewers.

Musical Stars sparkle in reworked revivals

By Nina P. Abo
EVERY YEAR, THE PHILIPPINE PLAYS REWORKED versions of old-time musicals and it's a tradition that's become a staple of the country's entertainment scene. From the early days of the country's first musical, The Light in the Piazza, to the more recent The Sound of Music, the country has a long history of reworking old-time musicals.

ALAN and SENA Rehearsing for their new musical, The Sound of Music.

For the past few years, the country has seen a resurgence of interest in old-time musicals. This is due to the fact that many of the old-time musicals were reworked and given a new twist.

One of the most popular old-time musicals is The Sound of Music. This musical has been reworked many times over, and each time it has been given a new twist.

Another popular old-time musical is The Light in the Piazza. This musical has also been reworked many times over, and each time it has been given a new twist.

There are many other old-time musicals that have been reworked and given a new twist. These include The Music Man, The Producers, and The Best of Broadway.

The success of these old-time musicals is due to the fact that they are reworked and given a new twist. This makes them more appealing to a new generation of audiences.

Another reason why these old-time musicals are so popular is that they are often reworked by talented artists. This ensures that the new versions are of high quality.

Overall, the resurgence of interest in old-time musicals is a testament to the enduring appeal of these classic stories. By reworking them and giving them a new twist, the country has ensured that these stories will continue to be enjoyed for many years to come.

ALAN and SENA Rehearsing for their new musical, The Sound of Music.
